

Student Research Symposium 2008

The Eleventh Student Research Symposium Tuesday, April 29, 2008

Morning Sessions: Cumnock Auditorium North Campus

9:00 - 10:00 Registration
10:00 - 12:00 Research Symposium Poster Presentations

Afternoon Sessions: O'Leary Library South Campus

1:00 - 2:00 Crossing the Great Divide Keynote Presentation. O'Leary 222
Artbotics! Art & Science Meet Downtown
Holly Yanco, Fred Martin & Hyun Ju Kim

2:00 - 5:00 Humanities Panel Presentations

Panel 1: 2:00-3:15 O'Leary 327
"Nightingales, Pretty Girls, and Spider Men: Examinations of Fairy Tales Past and Present"

Panel 2: 2:00-3:15 O'Leary 325
"Raising Questions of Social Hegemonic Discourse, Transgression, and Logic: A Practice in Theoretical Fluency"

Panel 3: 3:30-4:45 O'Leary 327
"Writing Identity: Teaching Composition in the Community"

Panel 4: 3:30-4:45 O'Leary 325
"Historical Perspectives/Contemporary Concepts"

Panel 5: 3:30-4:45 O'Leary 222
"Making Memory: Lowell Museums and the Representation of History"

The Eleventh Student Research Symposium is sponsored by the UML Honors Program. We gratefully acknowledge the assistance of the Council on Teaching, Learning, and Research as Scholarship, Task Force on Faculty Student Collaborative Research without whose support this symposium could not have taken place. The Task Force was responsible for instituting the Student Research Symposium in 1998 and nurturing its growth to a highly anticipated annual event for the UMass Lowell campus. This year, the 10th Anniversary of this celebration of student research at UML, is the first year of Honors Program administration, the first Crossing the Great Divide Keynote Presentation, the first presentations on South Campus, and the first extension to a full day event. Congratulations to all our student presenters!