From the fast beat of the Bop to the slow rhythm of the Swing, the boys of Notre Dame have danced their way through an array of social gatherings during the year. These dances have helped to provide social entertainment for all of the teen-agers in Rome.

THE FALL MIXER

To start the social year off, the Student Council of Notre Dame provided a dance which would enable the new and old students to get to know each other better.
During the year the juniors sponsored many dances to raise money for the Prom. These dances were well planned, the attendance large, and the decorations always received noticeable praise.

Credit must be given to the sophomores for the fine job that they did in producing and decorating such a dance as the Thanksgiving Dance.

THE CHRISTMAS FORMAL

For first year men the freshmen of N. D. I. have certainly set a precedent by having put on such a well-planned and executed dance.

By sponsoring this dance the seniors were able to have a formal which enable all the classes in the school to participate. The decorations were excellent and the food was good.
The Main Hall: The first sight to greet the boarders in the morning, and the last at night. Quiet during the school day, teeming with activity otherwise.
